UCLA Center for East-West Medicine | David Geffen School of Medicine | UCLA Health System

The Shirley Hui Memorial Fund

Mrs. Shirley Hui was born Shirley Manchu Tin in Hong Kong. She moved to Los Angeles to attend Pepperdine University, and in 1974 married Ka-Kit Hui, then a young medical student at UCLA, and now the Wallis Annenberg Professor in Integrative Medicine and the Founder and Director of the UCLA Center for East-West Medicine. As a partner and co-founder of the Center, Mrs. Hui maintained sustained and deep conviction of the benefits of integrative East-Medicine, and was a beneficiary of this approach before her passing in 2010.

The Shirley Hui Memorial Fund supports awards, educational events and scholarships in integrative East-West medicine. These programs open doors to professional advancement opportunities for students, trainees and healthcare professionals who aspire to meaningful careers improving healthcare with integrative medicine.
